BURGLARS AT FOUR STORES

Four Gettysburg Stores Visited by Burglars during Early Morning HOURS. Less than Five Dollars in Cash Secured.

Three Gettysburg stores were entered at an early hour this morning by unknown parties and small sums of money, aggregating less than five dollars, were taken. The stores entered were those of Edward H. Culp, Hanover street; R. E. Zinn, Carlisle street; and Reichle and Crouse, Baltimore street. An effort was made to gain entrance to the J. B. Wineman store on Center Square but it was not successful.

At the Culp store a bar was used to pry open the double doors on Liberty street. The burglary at this place was especially daring as the work was done under the glare of the electric light at the York street forks. The bar was used first at the top of the door and then gradually worked down to the lock which was pried off and entrance was then easy. Several barrels in front of the double doors were pushed away and the burglar or burglars then started to ransack the place. When the store was opened this morning papers and documents were found lying all around and several dollars in pennies found to be missing.

Mrs. Rachael Gobrecht, who lives on the second floor of the building, heard the men working at the Zinn store but could see nothing of them. Several cans of peas and salmon, a little tobacco and twenty nine cents in cash constituted the haul at this place. Entrance was gained through breaking a glass in the window of the rear door and then reaching in and opening the lock. Mr. Zinn missed the articles above mentioned when he looked over his stock. The money drawer had been thoroughly searched and was greatly torn up.

At the Reichle and Crouse butcher shop the miscreants were also heard, the sound of crashing glass arousing Herbert Allison who lives in the Star and Sentinel building nearby. Mr. Allison looked out of the window but could see nothing of the men. Between twenty and thirty cents were taken from the cash register but nothing else disturbed. Here, too, entrance was gained through a rear door, the glass being broken and easy access to the lock being had in this way.

At Wineman's store a piece of glass was broken out of the rear door window but either the men were frightened away or for some other reason did not try to get into the store. It would have been very easy to break out sufficient glass to crawl through the opening though the lock is of the kind that could not be worked without the key.

RETURNED THANKS

The Harrisburg Star Independent says "During the ceremonies last week an old Pennsylvania veteran made it his business to hunt up two ladies named Aughinbaugh to return his thanks personally to them for taking care of him when he was badly wounded in the great battle. One of the Aughinbaugh sisters was living when he called, but the other, who was Mrs. J. Howard Wert, of Harrisburg, died about a year ago very suddenly at Mt. Gretna. The old veteran was paying his first visit to Gettysburg since the battle, but he had not forgotten the name of the sisters who nursed him back to life."

TEACHERS' MEETING

The first educational meeting of the teachers of Tyrone township, will be held at Cranberry school house on Saturday, October 22. BEST FOR THE MONEY

Vogel's minstrels at Walter's Theatre Thursday evening were about the best Gettysburg theatre goers may expect for fifty cents. They deserved a better house. The stage setting for the first part was very attractive. The songs were fair and well sung. While the second part contained considerably less merit it seemed to please.

EXCURSION to Philadelphia Tuesday, October 18 on the Philadelphia and Reading railroad. All persons intending to go will please advise Rufus M. Bushman, Chambersburg street. Seats in the grandstand must be reserved at once, if desired, through Mr. Bushman or John A. Cox.

LEE ESCAPES HIS PURSUERS

Man who Jumped from Adams County Jail Wall in June is Seen between Hagerstown and Waynesboro but Escapes.

John Lee, who jumped from the Adams County jail wall on the morning of June 24, was seen between Waynesboro and Hagerstown on Thursday and given chase by Sheriff Thomas Barber and several deputies from Washington county, Maryland, but again made good his escape. Lee was wanted not only for his escape from the local jail but for pursuing his usual vocation of chicken stealing.

He was driving along the Middleburg pike with a woman by the name of Hazel Gauger, of Waynesboro, when the Sheriff and his deputies appeared. The woman was arrested but Lee jumped from the wagon and raced across the fields in the direction of Leitersburg. Pursuit was deemed useless.

Lee is alleged to have sold the stolen chickens in Hagerstown and a coop was found in the wagon when the Sheriff searched the vehicle. Lee was in jail for chicken stealing at the time he made his escape from Sheriff Fissel's care at eleven o'clock on the morning of June 24.

The escape was the boldest and most daring ever attempted from the local prison. Sheriff Fissel had all the prisoners out in the jail yard where some were pitching horse shoes and others playing base ball. Lee was not doing either and while the others were busily engaged in their sports slipped into the corridor and put on his outer shirt.

He then went out and without being seen slipped around to the northeast corner of the jail yard out of sight of the other prisoners and Sheriff Fissel. It is believed that when he found he was not being watched he crawled up the outside chimney to the low roof on a portion of the jail, that he then went on up to the main roof and dropped down to the wall fronting on High street. From there he is supposed to have walked over to the West wall from where he dropped into the yard of Mrs. Wible, the marks being there showing where he dropped.

He ran back through Mrs. Wible's yard and jumped over a fence into the alley sometimes known as "Wall Street" or "Gallows Avenue." He ran down this alley to the foot of the hill near the southeast corner of the old graveyard where he took to the fields in the direction of Culp's Hill and made good his escape.

News of Lee's being in the vicinity of Waynesboro was received by the local authorities several weeks ago and they have since been awaiting an opportunity to take the man.

THE LITTLE HOMESTEAD

With the coming of "The Little Homestead" to the Walter Theatre on Tuesday, October 11, theatre goers are promised a treat. The play introduces a happy little home in a New England village, broken up through the desire for revenge upon the young husband. It tells of a blind infatuation which leads the wife to forget her vows and depicts the sorrow and remorse consequent. The ultimate triumph of right, though too late to atone fully for the past, points to a healthy moral. The play and company are among the best on the road this season. The author of "The Little Homestead" is W. B. Patton. All special scenery will be used in this production.

DEDICATION OCTOBER 29

Handsome Memorial to Father Corby will be Unveiled here this Month. Statue to be Erected Next week.

The handsome bronze memorial statue to Rev. Father Corby who granted conditional absolution to the entire Irish Brigade, both Catholics and Protestants, just before one of the charges in the Battle of Gettysburg will be dedicated at this place on Saturday, October 29.

The statue which cost $3000 has been completed and will be erected next week on a boulder along Hancock avenue near the Railroad crossing. It is said that it was on this same boulder that Father Corby stood when he performed the impressive religious rite.

The dedication will be attended with more or less elaborate ceremonies. In the morning at 10.30 there will be services in St. Francis Xavier Church on West High street in which Rt. Rev. Fr. Cavanaugh, president of Notre Dame College, Indiana; Father Turner, of Philadelphia, Bishop Shanahan and others will take part.

In the afternoon at two o'clock the dedication on the field will occur. The program for these exercises has not yet been announced but will be attended by a number of features. A parade will likely precede the afternoon's program.

The dedication is expected to bring large crowds here. Two excursions are booked from Philadelphia, the one arriving here at 7.30 p. m. Friday and the other at 10.00 a. m. Saturday. They leave here on the return at 7.00 p. m. Saturday and 7.00 p. m. Sunday. SPENT $17,409 IN ALBANY

Former Treasurer of Defunct Sugar Co. so Testifies.

PAID TO HAVE BILL PASSED

Gave Sums Ranging From $39 to $3000 to Members of New York Legislature to Support Bill.

New York, Oct. 7.—The investigation into alleged corrupt practices of public service and industrial corporations seeking beneficial legislation at Albany took a new turn when the legislative investigating committee called to the stand officials of the defunct Lyons, N. Y., Sugar Refining Company.

Leland H. Multer, former treasurer of the defunct company, testified that the legislative agent of the company, Harry Zimmerman, had spent $17,409 in four years at Albany, the sums varying to as low as $39.

The late Senator John Raines and the late Assemblyman Jean L. Burnett were mentioned by Zimmerman in the bankruptcy proceedings of the Lyons concern a few weeks ago as having received $3000 and $1500 respectively from him as an inducement for their support of the beet sugar bounty bill.

Zimmerman said he had received $7000 from the Lyons company, while he was vice president, which was designed for contributions to legislators.

Went Into Bankruptcy.

The Lyons company superseded the Empire State Beet Sugar company in 1904 and went into bankruptcy in the spring.

Summarizing, the witness said that $7843.90 was paid to Zimmerman for his "work in Albany" in 1905; $1863.39 in 1906; $4917.50 in 1907, and $1535 in 1908, which reached a total of $16,159.70. Added to this the $1250 shown on the three checks not recorded in the books, Zimmerman received $17,409.70 for his lobbying activities.

"I had no understanding regarding the nature of Mr. Zimmerman's work in Albany beyond presuming that it was in connection with the sugar bounty appropriation," explained Multer.

"How often was Mr. Zimmerman in Albany?"

"He was there nearly every week while the legislature was in session."

"Did you have any knowledge of any money being paid to any member or employee of the legislature, or any campaign fund in connection with matters pending before the legislature?"

"I did not."

Mr. Multer told how neither these expenditures nor the nature of Mr. Zimmerman's work in the lobbies of the legislature were ever discussed at the meetings of the Lyons company's board of directors, and said no records had been made on the minute books of these matters.

COCKS IN DOUBT

Not Sure of Republican Success in New York State.

Washington, Oct. 7.—In an interview Representative W. W. Cocks, of New York, admitted the possibility of Republican defeat in New York.

"A fortnight ago," said Mr. Cocks, "the Democrats were claiming the state vociferously and figuring on a majority that ran into several thousands. Since the Saratoga convention and the advent of Colonel Roosevelt as the leader of his party in the state, however, they have not been so jubilant, although they continue to predict Democratic success. Colonel Roosevelt has taken active control of the situation, and I believe he will win the fight. The ticket named by the Democrats at Rochester is not as good as might have been."

"Mr. Dix is an estimable gentleman, but he has not a strong personality and is not the kind of a man to win over the unsettled voter. It is the wavering voter, the so-called floating and independent vote, that will count in this election."

Cocks admitted that the outcome was doubtful.

MANGLED AS BROTHER WAS

Young Man Lost a Leg on Crossing Where Brother Was Killed.

Somerville, N. J., Oct. 7.—By an odd coincidence Michael Mansfield, Jr., lost a leg on the same crossing of the Central Railroad of New Jersey that his brother, John Mansfield, lost his life just one year ago.

Young Mansfield boarded a slowly moving freight train for the purpose of riding to his home, several blocks up the track. As the train neared the fatal crossing where his brother was killed Mansfield was overcome by a strange premonition and fell from the train. The wheels passed over his right leg, severing it below the knee. His condition is critical.

Cashier Gets 20 Years.

Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 7.—In the United States court J. Howard Lowery, the defaulting assistant cashier of the Utica City National bank, pleaded guilty. Judge Ray sentenced him on two of the four indictments against him to twenty years in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta.

CASE OF CHOLERA AT N. Y.

Health Officer's Bacteriological Examination of Coal Passer Announced.

New York, Oct. 7.—Dr. Alva H. Doty, health officer of the port, announced that the bacteriological examination showed that Rudolf Sellitsch, a coal trimmer, who was removed from the steamship Moltke on Tuesday, is suffering from a true case of cholera. Sellitsch is now in the hospital at Swinburne Island. Dr. Doty said:

"Sellitsch has had no communication whatever with the cabin passengers and his condition is much improved. He may recover. After his removal the disinfection on board the Moltke was immediately begun and is now complete."

"The steage passengers still remain on board and, together with the crew, will be kept in quarantine to complete the period of five days of observation dating from the removal of the case."

JAIL SENTENCES NOW FOR SMUGGLERS

Judge Says No More Fines Will be Imposed.

New York, Oct. 7.—Jail sentences are to be imposed hereafter on travelers who seek to evade Uncle Sam's customs law.

Offenders caught smuggling recently have been heavily fined and let off. Judge Hand, in the United States court, on imposing a fine of $5000 on Mengo Morgenthau, a wealthy candy man, who pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with a failure to declare jewelry and wearing apparel worth $17,000, said:

"This is the last time I will let such offenders off with a fine. After this jail sentences will be imposed in addition to fines, and I want this declaration given as much publicity as possible."

Mr. Morgenthau's goods were forfeited at the time of his return on the Mauretania on Sept. 15.

Old "Bill" Maccabee Dead.

Philadelphia, Oct. 7.—Bill Maccabee, oldest veteran of the United States navy and probably the oldest surviving sea fighter of the world, died at the United States Naval home, where he had been an inmate for thirty years. The death of the widely known veteran, who celebrated his 107th birthday on Sept. 22, was peaceful and painless.

"Kittens" Not What They Seemed.

Monticello, N. Y., Oct. 7.—At the Grahamsville fair a skunk and her young escaped from their cage. Some unsuspecting women who stopped to watch the capture of the pretty "kittens" were sorry they showed so much curiosity.

SPENT $17,409 IN ALBANY

Former Treasurer of Defunct Sugar Co. so Testifies.

PAID TO HAVE BILL PASSED

Gave Sums Ranging From $39 to $3000 to Members of New York Legislature to Support Bill.

New York, Oct. 7.—The investigation into alleged corrupt practices of public service and industrial corporations seeking beneficial legislation at Albany took a new turn when the legislative investigating committee called to the stand officials of the defunct Lyons, N. Y., Sugar Refining Company.

Leland H. Multer, former treasurer of the defunct company, testified that the legislative agent of the company, Harry Zimmerman, had spent $17,409 in four years at Albany, the sums varying to as low as $39.

The late Senator John Raines and the late Assemblyman Jean L. Burnett were mentioned by Zimmerman in the bankruptcy proceedings of the Lyons concern a few weeks ago as having received $3000 and $1500 respectively from him as an inducement for their support of the beet sugar bounty bill.

Zimmerman said he had received $7000 from the Lyons company, while he was vice president, which was designed for contributions to legislators.

Went Into Bankruptcy.

The Lyons company superseded the Empire State Beet Sugar company in 1904 and went into bankruptcy in the spring.

Summarizing, the witness said that $7843.90 was paid to Zimmerman for his "work in Albany" in 1905; $1863.39 in 1906; $4917.50 in 1907, and $1535 in 1908, which reached a total of $16,159.70. Added to this the $1250 shown on the three checks not recorded in the books, Zimmerman received $17,409.70 for his lobbying activities.

"I had no understanding regarding the nature of Mr. Zimmerman's work in Albany beyond presuming that it was in connection with the sugar bounty appropriation," explained Multer.

"How often was Mr. Zimmerman in Albany?"

"He was there nearly every week while the legislature was in session."

"Did you have any knowledge of any money being paid to any member or employee of the legislature, or any campaign fund in connection with matters pending before the legislature?"

"I did not."

Mr. Multer told how neither these expenditures nor the nature of Mr. Zimmerman's work in the lobbies of the legislature were ever discussed at the meetings of the Lyons company's board of directors, and said no records had been made on the minute books of these matters.

COCKS IN DOUBT

Not Sure of Republican Success in New York State.

Washington, Oct. 7.—In an interview Representative W. W. Cocks, of New York, admitted the possibility of Republican defeat in New York.

"A fortnight ago," said Mr. Cocks, "the Democrats were claiming the state vociferously and figuring on a majority that ran into several thousands. Since the Saratoga convention and the advent of Colonel Roosevelt as the leader of his party in the state, however, they have not been so jubilant, although they continue to predict Democratic success. Colonel Roosevelt has taken active control of the situation, and I believe he will win the fight. The ticket named by the Democrats at Rochester is not as good as might have been."

"Mr. Dix is an estimable gentleman, but he has not a strong personality and is not the kind of a man to win over the unsettled voter. It is the wavering voter, the so-called floating and independent vote, that will count in this election."

Cocks admitted that the outcome was doubtful.

MANGLED AS BROTHER WAS

Young Man Lost a Leg on Crossing Where Brother Was Killed.

Somerville, N. J., Oct. 7.—By an odd coincidence Michael Mansfield, Jr., lost a leg on the same crossing of the Central Railroad of New Jersey that his brother, John Mansfield, lost his life just one year ago.

Young Mansfield boarded a slowly moving freight train for the purpose of riding to his home, several blocks up the track. As the train neared the fatal crossing where his brother was killed Mansfield was overcome by a strange premonition and fell from the train. The wheels passed over his right leg, severing it below the knee. His condition is critical.

Cashier Gets 20 Years.

Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 7.—In the United States court J. Howard Lowery, the defaulting assistant cashier of the Utica City National bank, pleaded guilty. Judge Ray sentenced him on two of the four indictments against him to twenty years in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta.

CANAL TO OPEN JAN. 1, 1915

Will Be Ready on Time, Says Colonel Goethals, Who Is Home on a Visit.

New York, Oct. 7.—Lieutenant Colonel George W. Goethals, chairman of the Panama canal commission, and chief engineer of the Panama canal, arrived here on the Colon for a brief visit.

Colonel Goethals has come up for the marriage of his son, which is to take place at Watertown, N. Y., next Tuesday, and he expects to leave New York the next day for the canal zone.

Colonel Goethals says that he is still has anything to do with the canal will surely be opened on Jan. 1, 1915. He feels pretty sure that the actual work of construction will have been completed, considerably before that time, but there will be tuning to do and a lot of machinery to try out, because he doesn't want anything to break down after the canal has been declared open. A big fleet will be waiting to go through, and the builders want every ship to do it without a hitch.

BAN ON HAZING

Authorities at Naval Academy Make Firm Orders.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 7.—In order that no midshipman shall commit the offense of hazing without realizing the seriousness of its nature and consequences, Superintendent J. M. Bowyer has issued an order warning the members of the three upper classes against anything of this nature.

The order was issued as a warning, though there is no reason to believe that anything of the kind has occurred or is imminent.

Under a specially passed statute of the United States, hazing at Annapolis and West Point is a misdemeanor and is to be punished with dismissal from the institution.

There is no doubt whatever that any midshipman who is convicted of any definite hazing, though the offense may apparently be light, will be recommended for dismissal by Superintendent Bowyer.

MILLIONAIRE CUTS THROAT

He had been suffering from melancholia, following a series of operations.

Mrs. Lupton was in Hartford, Conn., on a visit. Two children of Mr. Lupton are now in Europe. He was fifty-six years of age.

ROAD WORK IN TEXAS.

How Gravel Highways Forty Feet Wide Are Built.

The method of constructing roads in Ellis county, Tex., was described at a recent road convention in that state by County Judge Spencer. He stated that during the preceding year eighty miles of roads had been completed in the county, the rate of construction having been between eight and ten miles per month. The commissioners' court has full charge of the work, the commissioners acting as superintendents, but receiving instructions from the court. Four camps were maintained, each camp consisting of a grading, a gravel, a concrete and a rock and labor crew. Two convict crews were hired at $1.25 per work day per man for loading wagons. Foremen receive $75 a month, assistants $45 a month and concrete foremen $3 per day. Later is paid $1.50 per day, teams for scrapers $3 per day and the same for those hauling one yard loads of gravel, with $3.50 per day for those hauling loads of one and one-quarter yards each. One man is employed to do nothing but locate and test gravel. The equipment, such as scrapers, water wagons, wheelbarrows, picks, drills, shovels, tool boxes, tents, etc., costs about $5,000.

A roadway of at least forty feet is aimed at. The roads are built almost entirely of pit gravel, which is bought by the acre at an average cost of about 7 cents per load. The first twenty miles of road cost an average per mile as follows:

Grading.....	$25.84
Gravel, rock and pit work.....	167.15
Labor and salaries.....	367.48
Gravel and rock hauling.....	1,136.26
Dynamite and powder.....	14.09
Engineering.....	.58
Concrete construction.....	149.25
Miscellaneous.....	19.53

The average width of gravel was sixteen feet and the average depth four inches at the edges and twelve to twelve and two-thirds at the crown. The average number of loads of gravel and rock per mile was 1,834 and the average haul two miles. The average cost of haul per mile load was 32 1/3 cents. There was an average of two and one-half concrete bridges and culverts per mile, costing an average of $50.70 each. These were built of reinforced concrete, the re-enforcement being bought by the carload and the cement in 4,000 barrel lots. These are built on the general rule of providing one square foot of opening for each four or five acres to be drained.

The services of an engineer may be required on some extremely flat or level places. Our commissioners and foremen, however, have been able to handle this feature of our work satisfactorily in all but one instance. This service apparently cost them $11.00, which gives a very small average per mile, since this was the only engineering item for twenty miles of road.

HOW TO HELP.

Drivers Are Given Cards of Instruction.

The North Carolina Good Roads association is distributing throughout the state cards which read as follows:

"How to Keep This Road For Years:—This road was constructed for your use.

"Don't drive in one track. Avoid making ruts.

"If all use one place all the wear will be in one place and make a rut.

"If you use a little care and do not drive exactly where the last wagon did the wear will be distributed, which will keep the surface smooth and the road will remain good for years; otherwise it will soon be rutted and the smooth surface gone."

It is believed that if those who use the road will give a little attention to where they drive, so as not to drive directly in the same track as the team ahead of them has done, it will prevent the roads from becoming filled with ruts and will have a general tendency to pack the greater portion of the road.

Roads Affect Living Costs.

The National Grange prints an article showing the relation of the good roads question to the problem of the increased cost of living and the relatively decreasing population of the farming districts, which are now attracting universal attention. The article shows clearly that improved roads will increase the productivity of our farms, make effective co-operation among the farmers possible, create a market for many of the smaller farm products which are now uneasable, afford better educational facilities for the farmer's children and in many ways make country life more desirable and profitable.

Just What It Needs.

The National Good Roads association met at Niagara Falls, and the most interesting of many resolutions was that which called for the co-operation of state and federal governments in the good work, says the Florida Times-Union. At present the work is a great body without a head. What it needs more than anything else is intelligent direction to a fixed purpose. It will prove cheaper to pay toward this end than to change the lines after building, as we had to do with our railroads to make them effective as a whole for the good of all.

Uncle Sam Won't Pay.

The city authorities of Leavenworth, Kan., levied a paving assessment against the federal building in that city. They were surprised to find later that a federal building site is a government reservation, the sovereignty over which has been ceded by the state, and is therefore not taxable. A special appropriation by congress is necessary to pay for the paving, if it is to be paid.

THIN FOLKS MADE FAT

Good healthy flesh can only be gained by the use of the proper food, together with natural action of the organs of assimilation. Nine people out of ten are too thin or too fat. The general cause is imperfectly healthy, should use Samose, the great flesh-forming food and health restorer.

Samose does not contain a particle of starch or pepsin, nor is it any nauseating preparation, such as is usually recommended to make people fat, and which does not build up good healthy tissue, but contains the most valuable flesh-forming properties, tones up and strengthens the whole system, helps the food that is eaten to be assimilated in a natural manner, and absolutely restores health to all the organs.

If you are not perfectly satisfied with the results from Samose, People's Drug Store will return your money without any quibbling.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

Appropriations for poultry work in New York amount to $200,000. Our English cousins only receive a grant of $25,000 for the whole United Kingdom.

One way to quickly tell if an egg is good is to place it in water. If it sinks and lies flat on the bottom of the vessel it is all right. Bad men sometimes reach the top, but they finally get a drop.

When entirely plucked a guinea is very unsightly and rather repels customers. The head and feet should be washed, and only the pretty polka dot feathers should be removed from the breast.

The small cost of neat cartons and cases for eggs is quickly made up by the increase of box ton trade and reputation if the eggs are first class, but no fancy box can cover a multitude of business sins.

When Solomon said "There is nothing new under the sun" he spoke of his own day. But, oh, you new poultry woman! You're a splendid product of this age, a genius in your way, and you've surely come to stay.

It is quite interesting to hear the announcements of new poultry plants as to what they expect to accomplish. While such publications may not be overvaluation, they are often found to be exaggeration. It is better to do than to say.

Poultry experts are very quickly made by some poultry journals, especially when such parties are on the staff, as it adds dignity to the publication. But as D. D. can't make a man divine, so such hot air can't furnish brains to shine.

"The flowers that bloom in the spring, tra-la," had a pretty tough time of it in May and June, when the temperature went down to freezing and there were weeks of cold rain. Thousands of chicks were chilled for northern and eastern poultrymen, and the winds were terrific. A brooder house where chicks have room, heat, light, air and protection is a godsend at such a time.

Deserted Their Towns.

So late as the end of the seventeenth century the inhabitants of Ceylon were in the habit of deserting their towns. Their customs are described in the narrative of Captain Robert Knox, who for nineteen years, from 1690 to 1679, was a captive among them. He speaks of several towns as lying desolate owing to the fact that their inhabitants had forsaken them. This they did if many of them fell sick, and two or three died soon after one another, thinking that it was a visitation of the evil one. Some of them came back when they thought the evil spirits had departed.

KING MANUEL AT GIBRALTAR

Royal Family Made Voyage on Yacht.

LOYAL TROOPS ABOUT LISBON

Attempt to Force Their Allegiance to New Republic May Cause a Civil War—The Capital is Quiet.

Lisbon, Oct. 7.—The Portuguese royal yacht Amelle entered this harbor. King Manuel and the queen dowager, Maria Pia, the queen mother, and the Duke of Oporto are all aboard the yacht, all well.

Lisbon, Oct. 7.—While the city of Lisbon is in the hands of the revolutionists and a republic has been proclaimed, with Theophile Braga as provisional president, and other prominent Republicans constituting the ministry, there are still many thousands in and around the capital who are loyal to monarchy.

The monarchists include a portion of the Lisbon troops and troops massed in entrenched camps about the city. Thus far these have refused to ally themselves with the revolutionists, and the provisional government is taking steps to enforce allegiance.

The people of Lisbon are ignorant of events in the provinces and therefore it is not known whether the movement is broad enough to sweep the country. Nevertheless, the Republicans are proceeding as though the transformation of the monarchy into a republic was an accomplished fact, to stand for all time.

Revolt Long Planned.

For months past preparations have been going on for the overthrow of the king, and it had been definitely arranged to raise the cry of revolt on Wednesday. It so happened that the king was about to take up his residence at Cascaes, and the warships were ordered to proceed there. The navy, which is the chief support of the revolutionists, thereupon decided to act immediately; otherwise that defensive arm of the country would be able to offer no assistance in carrying out the plan.

Monday night at midnight the Republican chiefs, accompanied by numerous partisans, went to the barracks of the Sixteenth regiment of infantry. The doors were immediately thrown open to the populace, and arms were distributed to thousands. The barracks of the First regiment of artillery were next visited, and the guns dragged forth. The revolutionists marched to the highest point in Lisbon, a fine strategic position, where artillery was mounted threatening the town.

Loyal Troops Entrench.

The government troops immediately took up a position in the center of the town, about two miles distant from the revolutionists, where heavy guns and Maxim's were placed to oppose the revolutionists.

Meanwhile the insurgent cruiser Adamastor steamed up in front of Lisbon, ready for a bombardment, while the cruiser Rafael proceeded down the river, taking her station opposite the seamen's barracks, the men of which having joined the revolt, was surrounded by a force of municipal guards.

The cannonading commenced, and the whole town trembled to its foundations. A regiment of municipal cavalry made a brilliant charge in an endeavor to take the insurgents' encampment near the railway, but were met with a terrible fire from the artillery. This regiment was almost completely annihilated, only three men escaping.

Monarchists Surrender.

The same night the Ambassador and Rafael shelled the center of the town, doing much execution to the monarchist forces, and finally the latter, tired of the carnage, surrendered. The republic was proclaimed in the afternoon and the Republican flag hoisted on the public edifices.

The provisional government has issued a communication to the foreign powers, notifying them of the proclamation of the Portuguese Republic. No serious obstructions are expected to be offered by the provinces to the new regime. The government has already appointed civil governors for the different provinces.

The Brazilian president-elect, Marshal Hermes Fonseca, motored through the streets Thursday with the provisional president. Both were enthusiastically greeted by the people. Order has been restored throughout the greater part of the city. Patriots are guarding the thoroughfares.

FALL OF A MONARCHY.

King Manuel of Portugal and Scene at Lisbon.

Deslys, a noted French dancer, now performing in Vienna.

The young king is said to have lavished money and jewels upon Mlle. Deslys with real kindly prodigality. His attentions to this stage favorite, according to accounts, were looked on with stern disapproval by provincial subjects and helped, it is believed, to strengthen the feeling against the monarchy in that quarter.

She first met the king while she was dancing in a London music hall. King Manuel was there searching for a bride. Her act was of a most daring description, and attracted the eye of Portugal's youthful sovereign.

According to report Mlle. Deslys says she sees no disgrace in being the favorite of a king; that it was a love that royal convention could not overcome. She declares that she never made capital out of her relations with the king, although she might have turned them to good financial account in her theatrical ventures. She says she never asked the papers to call her the uncrowned queen of Portugal. She went on to say that Manuel often came to Paris to visit her.

MINISTER PLEADS GUILTY TO ABDUCTION

Faces 10-Year-Term For Eloping With 14-Year-Old Girl.

Schenectady, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Rev. Clinton Dewitt Sharpe, who has maintained his innocence of the charge of abducting fourteen-year-old Eunice Whittaker from her home here last June, changed his plea to guilty when arraigned in the supreme court here, and he now faces a term of ten years in prison, a $1000 fine, or both.

"Clinton Dewitt Sharpe, you are indicted by the grand jury for abducting fourteen-year-old Eunice Whittaker and taking her away for improper purposes, she not being your wife," declared District Attorney Briggs.

Sharpe, dressed in black and wearing a black bow necktie, answered in a clear voice: "I plead guilty, but I wish to say that no harm was intended when I took the girl away. I enter the plea merely in order to save trouble and expense."

The evangelist spoke for himself, having no lawyer.

Sharpe, after two months' absence, gave himself up to the Kansas City police and was brought back here by Sheriff Hathaway. Miss Whittaker, who rebuked her parents when first returned here, is anxious to see Sharpe go to jail now and to return to her home, which she has not seen in four months. She is in the custody of the humane society at present.

UNVEIL STATUE TO MUHLENBERG

Revolutionary Hero Honored in Philadelphia.

PROMINENT MEN SPEAK

Big Parade, Participated in by German, Irish and American Societies, Preceded Ceremonies.

Philadelphia, Oct. 7.—Men of three nations joined in paying tribute to a son of the German fatherland who won distinction and lasting memory in the war for the freedom of his adopted land—General Peter Muhlenberg.

A splendid bronze statue of the Revolutionary hero was unveiled on the south plaza of city hall with elaborate ceremonies, in which German, Irish and American organizations participated.

As the immense flag which draped the statue was drawn backward there was an inspiring splendor to the scene that brought resounding and oft-repeated cheers from the throats of the thousands of people assembled on the street and plaza, grouped tier upon tier in the windows of the towering office buildings nearby and hanging precariously from balconies and roof ledges.

In addition to the German societies in this city, many from Norristown, Camden and Wilmington were invited. At the unveiling ceremonies addresses were made by Mayor Rebyrn, Dr. Arthur Mudra, the German consul, Judge William H. Staake and others.

The parade was one of the largest ever seen in this city on a similar occasion, about 20,000 persons being in line. One hundred and seventy-five German societies from all over Pennsylvania were in line, with ninety-nine divisions of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, a number of G. A. R. veterans, National Guardsmen, a detachment of marines from League Island navy yard, cadets from Girard college and the Wanamaker Commercial institute and the First City Troop.

Exercises at Statue.

The exercises at the monument were preceded by a selection by the Municipal band. General Louis Wagner, chairman of the monument committee, introduced Dr. C. J. Hexamer, president of the German Society of Pennsylvania, as the presiding officer, and the United Singers, under the direction of H. G. Kummie, sang "Der Tag des Herrn." Rev. W. O. Pegeley, pastor of Augustus Lutheran church, at Trappe, which was founded by Henry Melchior Muhlenberg, father of General Muhlenberg, made the invocation and Dr. Hexamer delivered an address.

Immediately following the cords holding the shroud about the statue were pulled by Miss Dorothy Elizabeth Marshall and Louis Wagner Marshall and the marble stood forth in completion. The United Singers burst forth in the "Dankgebet," or Song of Thanksgiving, following which Judge Staake delivered the English oration.

Dr. Hexamer then formally presented the monument to the city and Mayor Rebyrn made the speech of acceptance. Dr. Mudra, the German consul, delivered the German oration, and the exercises concluded with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" by the United Singers, accompanied by the band and with the audience joining in the chorus.

The statue is the contribution of the United German Societies of Pennsylvania, and it has taken them the last four years to get together the $65,000 necessary to erect it. It was decided that no more fitting date could be selected for its unveiling than German day, and the work was rushed so that it would be completed in time.

READY FOR ROOSEVELT

Indiana Democrats Preparing to Shoot His Speech Full of Holes.

Indianapolis, Oct. 7.—Almost as soon as Theodore Roosevelt gets out of town on Oct. 13 the Democrats will begin shooting his speech full of holes. Three of their heaviest artillerymen will do the work.

Alton B. Parker, of New York, who was the Democratic candidate for president in 1904, will take the first shot at Roosevelt in Indiana. Word has been received that the Democratic headquarters that Parker will speak in at this city Saturday night, Oct. 15, just two days after Roosevelt speaks.

After Parker will come William J. Bryan for a speech on Oct. 19, and John W. Kern will speak on Oct. 22.

THE SPARROW PEST.

After exhaustive investigation bird students seem agreed that the English sparrow does more harm than good and is therefore properly classed in the list of injurious birds. Not only does this omnipresent species consume very few harmful insects, but it consumes an amount of grain out of all proportion to the weed seeds which it destroys. This would be enough if it were all, but to the offenses mentioned must be added that it is a persistent destroyer and breaker up of the nests of many of our most valuable bird friends, in particular the wren, bluebird, martin and one or two species of swallows. The biological survey of the department of agriculture has studied the question of the destruction of the English sparrows and recommends shooting, trapping and poisoning in addition to a persistent and systematic breaking up of their nests during the mating season. For shooting No. 10 shot is recommended, a bunching of the birds being effected by scattering a few handfuls of wheat in a long row and firing lengthwise of this strip after the birds are settled. An effective trap may be made by constructing a shallow frame 4 by 4 feet of four inch boards and on the top nailing a wire screen. This should be raised on one edge and supported by a two foot prop, a chip being placed between the end of the stick and the edge of the frame. The trap is sprung by means of a string attached to the upper part of the stick and leading to a place of concealment, from which the operator can keep watch. When a sufficient number of sparrows are under the trap it may be sprung. The same principle can be employed in the case of an old door or other deadfall, the weight of which will main or kill the birds caught beneath. Birds secured in either of these ways are good eating, this being a common disposal of them in European countries for centuries. The most effective method of poisoning is by using wheat treated as follows: Put one-eighth ounce strychnia sulphate into three-fourths of a gill of hot water and boil until dissolved. Moisten one and a half teaspoonfuls of starch with a few drops of cold water, add it to the poison solution and heat until starch thickens. Then pour hot poisoned starch solution over a quart of wheat and stir until every kernel is coated. A small kernel of wheat is best, and a two quart glass jar makes a good vessel to mix in. The wheat will dry enough for use in a short time if spread out thinly on a hard flat surface. For both traps and poisoning the sparrows should be baited with wheat so that they will become used to the spot in which they are to be taken. If three or four spots are selected they may be dealt with in rotation. The most effective work in disposing of the sparrows may be done in winter after a snowstorm, when other forms of food are scarce.

THE HOLLOW BLOCK SILO.

Within a couple of weeks the writer has had opportunity to inspect carefully the silo which was designed and is at present highly recommended by the Iowa State college at Ames. This structure is called the "Iowa" silo and is constructed of clay hollow blocks, which are given the desired kiln or curve on the cutting table. A substantial cement foundation from a foot and a half to two feet thick should be laid for the structure and put deep enough to extend below the post line and rest on solid earth. The courses of hollow blocks are laid in cement, and between every other course, if the hollow blocks are of the small size, a heavy wire girder is placed, which gives added strength and stability to the structure. The door frame is continuous and of solid cement, heavy iron rods running its full length, and to these are anchored the wire stays above mentioned. At intervals of about six feet cement braces extend across the doorway, these being reinforced with steel ties attached to the upright rods. A cement roof is recommended for this silo, but this is not vital, one of metal or wood answering the purpose very well. The advantages of the hollow block silo are that it is practically air tight, that it does not warp and shrink when empty, that it will not rot and that the dead air spaces of the wall make the structure the warmest possible. The cost of a silo 18 by 32 feet, large enough to hold 200 tons of ensilage, will range from $380 to $480, depending upon accessibility of materials, etc. A considerable economy can be effected by the use of silos of this type and by ordering the same neighborhood by ordering the materials in carload lots. At the cost named the hollow block silo is as cheap as if not cheaper than a substantial wooden structure of like dimensions, counting first cost only and not taking into account any of the advantages above mentioned.

Words of Strength.

There are three lessons I would write, Three words as with a burning pen, In tracing of eternal light Upon the hearts of men.

Have hope! Though clouds environ now And Gladness hides her face in scorn, Put thou the shadow from thy brow. No night but has her morn.

Have faith! Where'er thy bark be driven— The calm'st disport, the tempest's mirth— Know this: God rules the hosts of heaven, The inhabitants of earth.

Have love! Not love alone for me, But man as man thy brother call And scatter like the circling sun Thy charities on all.

Thus grave these words upon thy soul— Hope, faith and love—and thou shalt find Strength when life's surges rudest roll. Light when thou else wert blind.

Est Zeigler's bread

According to the last report of the bureau of statistics, the total amount of sugar consumed in the United States in the year ended June 30 last was 7,500,000,000 pounds, the average per capita consumption being eighty-two pounds, which exceeds that of any preceding year.

Of the above enormous total of sugar consumed there were produced in the United States 750,000,000 pounds of cane sugar and 1,025,000,000 pounds of beet sugar as against 829,000,000 pounds and 907,000,000 pounds, respectively, for the year preceding. The imports from foreign countries for the last year aggregated 3,918,000,000 pounds, which is a reduction of 188,000,000 pounds from the preceding year.

The remainder of the sugar consumed amounted to 1,856,000,000 pounds, of which the Hawaiian Islands furnished 1,111,000,000, Porto Rico 569,000,000 and the Philippines 175,000,000 pounds. An interesting fact in connection with the history of sugar production for some years past is that, while foreign countries produced 75 per cent of the total amount consumed in 1900, they produced but 51 per cent of the amount used last year. In the production of beet sugar there has been an increase from 73,000,000 pounds in 1899 to 1,025,000,000 pounds last year.

The Scrap Book

He Wouldn't Repeat.

When Harry Lauder went to London for the first time the stage reputation he had made in the provinces had not made much of an impression on the metropolis. With a shrewd sense of the value of striking effects, Lauder decided he would arouse the Londoners to his peculiar merits in a novel manner.

From some bonnyard or other he procured the most skeleton-like specimen of horseflesh he could find. On this he planned to make his first stage entrance.

The old horse was tractable enough with Lauder astride awaiting his turn in the wings, but when the little fellow urged him forward for the grand entrance there was a balk, a buck, and Harry was indignantly shot to the front of the stage over the horse's head, the animal peering after him with what might be termed an amused expression.

Lauder slowly and painfully rose to his feet, while the gallery applauded and stamped and cried lustily:

"Do it again, 'Arry; do it again!"

Lauder rubbed his aching back, felt cautiously of his bones, looked back at the horse, and, turning to the audience, he said:

"Like — I will!"

And he didn't, but thereafter his popularity was assured.—Judge.

The Face of Life.

Life cried to Youth: "I bear the cryptic key."

"I grant you two desires, but only two. What gifts have I to crown and comfort you?"

Youth answered: "I am blind, and I would see."

Open my eyes and let me look on thee."

"Twas done. He saw the face of life and then Cried brokenly, "Now make me blind again!"

—Edwin Markham.

A Supplementary Statement.

An aspiring pugilist went on for a preliminary bout at one of the athletic clubs not long ago. As he pulled on his gloves he beckoned the referee over and asked him to make an announcement. The referee obliged.

"Kid Binks desires me to say," he shouted, "that this is his first appearance in any ring."

The pair of fighters fiddled for a moment, and then Kid Binks' antagonist slipped one over. THE OBLIGING REFEREE.

Kid Binks fell so hard that he fairly splashed. The referee began to count him out, but the intelligent Mr. Binks looked up and whispered something to him. The obliging referee turned and addressed the audience. "Mr. Binks," said he, "wishes me to supplement his statement of a moment ago. This is also his last appearance in any ring."—Cincinnati Times-Star.

What the Books Cost Him.

When Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll was living in Peoria he was called upon one day by General John A. Logan. The colonel was upstairs at the time, and General Logan was ushered into the library, where on a table were three volumes of Voltaire's works, an edition de luxe representing all that was best in the bookbinder's art. General Logan picked them up one at a time, absorbed in his admiration of their beauties. While so engaged Colonel Ingersoll entered the room.

"Colonel," said the general, holding one of the volumes in his hands, "this is the most magnificent volume I have ever seen. I do not want to seem impertinent, but would you mind telling me what these books cost you?"

"Those books," began the colonel, the twinkle in his eye growing brighter at each word, "cost me—the governorship of Illinois."

His Low Voice.

The late Justice Brewer was presiding years ago over a civil case in which one of the important witnesses was a horse doctor named Williams. The doctor was a small man with a weak little voice, and the counsel on both sides, as well as the court and jury, had great difficulty in hearing his testimony.

During cross examination the counsel for the plaintiff became exasperated and began to prod and harry the little man.

"Dr. Williams," he shouted, "if we are ever going to get anywhere with this case you must speak up so the court will hear you. Speak up loud and strong, sir!"

The small sized veterinary tried, but it was evidently no use. Whether from embarrassment or inability the sound would not come.

"Well, your honor," began the counsel indignantly, when Judge Brewer stopped him with a gesture. Leaning over the bench he said in his kindly tone:

"Mr. Attorney, you must be patient with the doctor. He cannot help it. Years spent in the sick room have apparently made speaking low a second nature with him."—Green Bag.

If the average country plunger on the board of trade—more exactly, the fellow who sends his money to city commission men for investment in wheat or corn or pork or what not—could see the degree of affluence in which these fellows live, who neither toll nor spin, he would be a whole lot slower than he usually is in playing a game in which he usually gets plucked before he gets through. It's a bit slower and laborious making coin by swilling pigs and milking cows, but lots safer and surer in the long run.

IMPROVING THE FLOCK.

Selection of the Ram is a Matter of Prime Importance.

In purchasing a ram it is best to see him "on his own grounds"—to see the place where he was raised, the sheep he was raised from and how he as well as the other sheep are handled, says the National Stockman. Good sheep often deteriorate when taken home and put under what are to them adverse conditions. The buyer becomes discouraged and looks upon the seller as a swindler when a little study of the methods of handling the ram and a not too sudden change in those methods would have saved the sheep for good service and would not have discouraged the breeder in his attempt to improve his flock.

If it is impossible to go personally and select a ram on account of the distance or for any other reason, a perfectly safe way to purchase, provided the buyer knows what he wants, is by mail order. If the kind of sheep wanted is clearly defined and the price stated to an honest breeder—and honest breeders are not hard to find—there need be no fear but that the ram supplied will be worth every cent of the money paid. The reputable breeder will not take the chance of hurting his reputation by sending out a ram not worth the price paid. If he hasn't the sheep asked for he will write and say so and will not attempt to fill the order from other sources.

The county and state fairs are poor places to buy breeding stock of any kind. The stock at such an exhibition is always under unusual and advantageous conditions. The man who is not an expert judge is unconsciously misled by the high standard of all stock and often gets false impressions of the value of a breed or of individuals of a breed. The poorest sheep are at home. It is impossible to tell how much those present have been pampered. Disappointment and loss of money will often be saved by a personal selection of the ram on the farm where he was raised.

PARAFFINING CHEESE.

Best Results Obtained When Wax is Made Very Hot.

Mr. John Michels when at the Michigan experiment station devoted considerable time in experimenting with paraffining cheese, and we take from a special bulletin the following paragraph:

"To secure a perfect, permanent and impervious covering over the entire surface the cheese is dipped for a moment into a liquid paraffin. Heretofore the paraffin has been heated by steam or hot water, and it has been difficult, if not impossible, to secure a temperature higher than 200 degrees F. Where the cheese was dipped at this low temperature there was a manifest tendency for the covering of paraffin to crack and even peel off. A double gasoline burner was therefore tried and the temperature raised to 266 degrees F.

"Repeated tests at various temperatures seemed to indicate that the best results are obtained between 240 and 250 degrees F. In fact, in no case where the dipping was done at this high temperature did the covering peel off. The experiments show that a thin coat of paraffin is all that is needed. The amount of paraffin required for a cheese weighing forty-four pounds is about one-fourth of a pound. Cheese should be treated within two to twelve hours after leaving the press. The best paraffin for this purpose has a melting point of somewhere between 130 to 135 degrees."

Remedy For Self Sucking Cows.

The device shown in the accompanying diagram will prevent a cow from sucking herself. It is claimed. The thing is easily and cheaply made. It consists of two lengths of light rope and six pieces of round light wood about eleven or twelve inches in length. Holes a little larger than the diameter of the rope are bored at each end of the sticks. The pieces are then threaded upon the rope, tying a knot on each side of each stick to prevent it from slipping out of place. The sticks are so arranged that there will be three on each side of the cow's neck, as indicated in the accompanying drawing. The collar is then adjusted and seldom fails to have the desired effect.

The Unprofitable Runt.

Few runty pigs ever are born, but when we see one in a pen with the larger hogs you can count on it being coming more and more of a runt every day.

A Confession.

The late Father Ducey was once eagerly sought, while hearing confessions, by an enterprising reporter for a New York newspaper.

There was a long line of penitents in the church, and the reporter saw that the only way to get a speedy hearing would be to get a place in the line. At last his turn came. "Father Ducey," he began, "I'm a reporter for the New York Daily Blank."

"My son," interrupted the cleric, "even that might be forgiven."

THOSE BALDHEADED ROOSTERS.

Most baldheads describe their bald spot as the external manifestation of the internal activity of multitudinous ticks—the myriad whirling wheels of their think box clipping the rootlets of their locks.

But are women brainless because baldness, and how about knowns with bald spots?

Here is one rooster who got bald by strenuous manipulation of his big toe nail on the top of his head to catch cravies. This is no insinuation, brother. But when the Gonolodes eynsfordi go for a rooster's scalp—"Ah, there's the rub!"

The midgets give him fidgets; he uses his digits and makes a bald spot of his topknot. Then John Bughouse yells, "Jehoshaphat, look at them bald-heads!"

Mr. Smartaleck comes along and says: "John, that's nothin' but favaus. Feed 'em sulphur to thin their blood."

But it's not blood—it's bloodsuckers, and they've got them sucked thin already.

He who does not see and kill these small, gray, fat, long lice early is bound to see the elephant later, for these murderers that people the most vital parts of a fowl, the head and neck, literally ride their victims to death.

They are the worst destroyers of chicks, suck the life out of old fowls and are difficult to kill. A number of loose powder firms are honest enough to confess that their powder will not kill head lice, and so they sell a head louse ointment accordingly. Pure Persian insect powder is a killer, but much of it is adulterated with flour.

We hereby furnish you reliable destroyers: Sponge the hackles and wing quills of adult or half grown fowls with gasoline; place fowls in open air to recover from dizziness.

Dissolve a block of camphor in a half pound of lard. Use as ointment when hot.

Melt a pound of lard and stir in a half pint of coal oil. Apply as above.

Mercurial ointment is perhaps most deadly. Mercurial ointment: Lard thirty parts, tallow twenty-five parts, mercury fifty parts, oleate of mercury three parts.

Apply to the hen's hackle and vent and rub into the skin. This will kill head and body lice on the hen and chicks will be groomed when hatched. These killers may be used in moderate quantities on old and young stock and will cure all baldheads in the flock.

Wanted Good Odds.

In the first days of James J. Hill's wonderful career as railroad builder and manager he and "Diamond Joe" Hallday met on the levee in St. Paul one day when Jim was helping to start a freight train over the little up grade, the engine's horsepower requiring more or less human aid. Hill and his friends had just made the purchase of the St. Paul and Pacific, and "Diamond Joe's" fleet of Mississippi river stern wheelers was then the dominant factor in transportation problems of the new northwest.

"Jim, I'll race one of my boats against your train," "Diamond Joe" said.

"Don't know about that," Jim answered. "Some of your boats are pretty fast."

"Race you up stream; water high, current swift," insisted Hallday.

"What?" exclaimed Hill in surprise. "You mean that you would race your boat in the water? Huh! Not much. I'm willing to give you odds, but not that big. Turn her paddles on dry ground and I'll go you."—Success Magazine.
